Charity festival will be bigger than ever before

HOME COMING: The Electric Circus Band

By EMMA CRUCES

A major music festival for charity this weekend has become a multi-venue event as organisers confirmed their headlining bands.

Organisers of Oxjam Blackburn said the event would be bigger and better than last year with six venues taking part in the day on Saturday.

In 2008 the festival was held in King George's Hall but organisers decided to attract a variety of venues this year to expand the event.

Venues taking part include O'Neils, Live Lounge, Residence, Evolution Lounge, Cellar Bar and 41 King Street.

Blackburn was chosen to host one of 22 regional multi-venue events after it was championed by Darwen graduate Jill Smith who said it was an opportunity to revive the community spirit in Blackburn and to encourage local musical talent.

Headlining acts include Liverpool band the Screaming Lights, up and coming Blackburn singer songwriter Charlotte O'Connor and Blackburn's own Electric Circus Band.

Also appearing are The Words, India Mill, Lovelacer, Ellie Rigby, The Locals, The Escobar and The Scene.

Oxjam is held annually to raise money for registered charity Oxfam to tackle poverty and is aimed at raising awareness about climate change.

U-turn delight

Take That Diana!

Star pens 'perfect' finale song

By CATHERINE PYE

Take That's Mark Owen has penned the finale song for former X Factor contestant Diana Vickers to belt out in her West End debut starring in The Rise And Fall Of Little Voice.

The tune, Sunlight, received an eight-minute standing ovation after Diana, from Huncoat, sang it during the show's first preview performance, according to producers.

The song was co-written by Jamie Norton and Ben Mark, and Vickers described it as 'beautiful'.

Playwright Jim Cartwright said: "It had always been my intention to write an original song for the end of my play, when Little Voice finally sings in her own voice.

"However, when we premiered at the National Theatre in 1992 we ran out of time and a Judy Garland song was used.

"When I first heard Sunlight with Diana Vickers singing it, tears came to my eyes.

"I was thrilled. It was exactly what I wanted."

The Vaudeville Theatre show is a black comedy about painfully shy Little Voice, who lives in the North of England with her mother played by Playing The Field actress Lesley Sharp.

Show publicist Kevin Wilson said: "She's coping really well and is making everyone else feel very tired – she's half the age of other members of the cast.

"Diana is being very careful. She is getting lots of rest, eating well and doing all the right things.

"She's not a trained actress and has been very sensible.

"It has been amazing and wonderful for her."

The show's official opening night took place yesterday. Bookings are being taking until January 30

£240k payout for worm bite

By EMMA CRUCES

A record £240,000 has been awarded to a woman whose health was destroyed after she bit into a fat black worm during a meal on holiday.

Accrington mum-of-three Beryl Rushton has been fighting for justice for seven years after discovering the half-inch thick, blood-covered worm inside her red snapper fish steak at a luxury Dominican Republic resort.

The two week break in the Caribbean left her fighting for her life.

She ended up suffering septicaemia, organ damage, temporary blindness and deformity to her spine and joints – and is largely confined to a wheelchair.

Yet it has taken years to reach a settlement with tour operator First Choice since the ordeal in 2001 on a Christmas break to the five star Tropical Beach resort in Puerto Plata.

Mrs Rushton, who now relies on carers, said: "I am angry it has taken so long. They would ask me over and over again to see yet another specialist.

"You go on holiday to recharge your batteries. You don't expect something like this to happen."

Beryl flew back to Britain and was rushed straight from Manchester Airport to Accrington Victoria before being transferred to Blackburn Royal Infirmary where a consultant from Liverpool's School of Tropical Medicine was called in.

Doctors discovered an infection contracted from the worm attacked Beryl's brain, liver and pancreas.

Her lengthy legal struggle was supported by specialist travel law solicitor, Paul McClorry from Manchester firm, Pannone.

A spokeswoman for First Choice said they no longer used the hotel.

She said: "First Choice was very concerned to hear about Mrs Rushton's illness while staying at the Hacienda Tropical. We would like to reassure our customers that their health and safety is of paramount importance."

COMPENSATED: But Beryl's health has been destroyed

Award nod for PC

By SAM CHADDERTON

A Blackburn police constable who has closed six drug dens has been nominated for a prestigious award.

PC Christopher Hammill is in the running for the country's community police officer of the year for his work in the Griffin Park area of Blackburn.

The winner of the Jane's Police Review Gala award receives an engraved gold medal and £3,000 funding for a trip to study community policing in another country.

PC Hammill has established himself as an expert among colleagues at securing closure orders for crack houses.

GONG: PC Christopher Hammill

During four years with Lancashire Constabulary, he has already closed six properties and achieved a 29 per cent year-on-year reduction in criminal damage.

After an increase in violent assaults, coupled with complaints about anti-social behaviour, sex workers and drug dealing in one area, PC Hammill requested more resources to launch Operation Tassels to gather intelligence and disrupt criminals working in the area.

The operation led to a successful application for a joint crack house closure on two properties.

Inspector Mustaq Patala said: "He is not one to shy away from tricky issues and will always tackle problems head-on.

"Chris will never shirk a difficult neighbourhood issue and stands up to be counted."

PC Hammill said: "I am also very grateful for all the assistance I have had from my colleagues on the neighbourhood team particularly PCSO's Amy Wilson and Mohammed Emam.

"We are very lucky that the Galligreaves and Griffin area has very pro-active members of the community that have embraced Neighbourhood Policing and worked on a numer of initiatives with us."

Kirsty Brooker, based at Burnley Police Station, is also nominated, in the student officer of the year category.

TOP PRIZES: Sophie with two of her prizes, including one taller than herself

Sophie wins big

By CATHERINE PYE

Fourteen-year-old disco dancer Sophie Lee has shown she has the moves to become one of the country's top dancers.

The Queen Elizabeth's Grammar School pupil beat 700 other dancers to scoop four top awards at the Pwllheli Dance Festival.

During the weekend, Sophie, of Beaumont Way, Darwen, won awards for the Qualifiers for the Grand Final, the Grand Final, Queen of the Dancing Festival and Top of Intermediates.

For the Queen of the Dancing Festival she collected a trophy taller than she was.

Mum Angela said the event had gone really well and Sophie was extremely pleased to have won the awards.

She said: "We struggled to get the big trophy in the car it was so large. All the seats had to come down and it was still a squeeze!"

"I'm really proud of Sophie. She works hard and it goes to show that there are kids in the community who do do well."

PM's election wagon rolls in

By DAVID WATKINSON

Prime Minister Gordon Brown made a snap visit to Blackburn as the 2010 election campaign was stepped up.

The region is a clear target for all political parties with many of the constituencies seen as being up for grabs.

Earlier this year Tory leader David Cameron visited the Citizen's sister paper the Lancashire Telegraph to outline his views.

And on Thursday it was Mr Brown's turn to make the case for Labour.

Speaking to the Telegraph Mr Brown said he understood the issues facing Blackburn and East Lancashire.

He said: "I have visited Blackburn in the past with Jack Straw and I know very well the challenges that the town faces.

"(The deprivation statistics) show there is more to do in towns like Blackburn. There is no doubt that this area is dealing with deprivation on a serious level and we are going to put in resources to help the poorest people.

AREA PLANS: Reporter David Watkinson grills Gordon Brown

"We are planning to put more money into schemes to help communities where there have been problems.

"There will be more money announced because we want to make sure residents have more powers to deal with anti-social and real problem families.

"For problem families we are introducing intervention programmes and a tough no-nonsense approach."

During the visit Mr Brown met LDV workers in Leyland, took part in a phone-in on Radio Lancashire and visited Preston.

Mr Brown also spoke about community cohesion concerns in East Lancashire.

He said: "We want to see community relations improve and we have to find ways of bringing the community together.

"There are a lot of very good people in Blackburn who have made many very good steps forward. Jack Straw has highlighted to me that more work needs to be done."

Auction - the best way to sell

Farrell Heyworth Auctions most recent September auction has resulted in 80% of lots being sold with further offers still on the table for the few remaining lots, the total raised being £1.65 million.

Auctions Manager Oliver Adams noted "the room was full of bidders & although the bidding was very tough on the day we did eventually secure sales for the majority of our clients that ranged from private individuals, corporate relocation & asset management firms, landlords & builders" Auctions really do attract the buyers in the current market, if you have not considered sale by auction then its really important that you speak to a well respected auction house that can prove their success.

Farrell Heyworth advertise on the UK's biggest auction website www.eigroup.co.uk where all auctions publish their sales results, Oliver advises that any potential auction seller checks out the sales figures for any auction house they consider selling through before they commit. Recent auction sales in the North West have resulted in sales figures ranging from 31% to 80% showing the importance of picking the right auction house.

Farrell Heyworths September auction saw properties sell from £40,000 to over £220,000 to include flats, terraces, semis, detached, house & bungalows, 2 cottages & a former childrens nursery with planning for residential development in Ulverston. Oliver commented that virtually everything has its price at auction regardless of condition, location or style. In most cases we can provide an auction appraisal within 24 hours competely free of charge.

Buyers can bid in person on the day of the auction or by telephone or proxy if they can not attend the auction & with Farrell Heyworth making free to view online legal packs there really is no reason not to bid! Properties were sold all over the North West including Fulwood, Preston, Morecambe, Lytham St Annes, Ulverston, Thornton Cleveleys, Wigan, St Annes, Blackpool, Penwortham and Chorley. Oliver was keen to add "if you have any property in any condition, land or a development opportunity anywhere in the North West then you need to sell through Farrell Heyworth Auctions!"

Oliver says the auction route has clear benefits for property owners keen to make a swift sale. "Buyers pay a 10% deposit on the day," he explains, "contracts are exchanged on the day of the auction and typically complete in 20 working days. There's no worry about the sale falling through, plus auctions are a particularly effective way of selling 'difficult' properties like those with structural problems or those requiring renovation. "We can sell any type of property in any condition this way, so property owners who are having difficulty selling through traditional methods improve their chances enormously by bringing them to auction. While many of the bidders are landlords and developers, a significant number go to owner occupiers, including first time buyers. Of course there are bargains to be had, but sellers are frequently surprised at the prices they achieve" said Oliver.

Farrell Heyworth's next property auction takes place on Wednesday 9th December 2009 in the Great Room at Preston North End FC. The closing date for registering properties is Monday 9 November at 5pm and anyone with an interest in selling their property via the event should contact Farrell Heyworth's Auction Department on 0845 310 5700. £6k help in recession

By CHRIS HOPPER

Town hall bosses in Blackburn have been handed money to help communities deal with the recession.

The Government has dished out grants to 27 deprived areas after fears were raised about some sectors of the community feeling excluded.

Ministers said the action was taken as traditional white, working-class communities in England felt 'under pressure' from social and economic changes.

Some £6,000 has been given to spark initiatives in the town.

A Blackburn with Darwen Council spokesman said the money could be spent on youth projects in Little Harwood, Blackburn.

Council leader Mike Lee said: "We welcome this announcement which, although not a huge amount of money, builds on the work being done across the borough ranging from advice and support on education, skills, employment, welfare rights and debt counselling as well as giving people a voice through neighbourhood voices and neighbourhood boards.

"Like the rest of the UK, our residents are facing the challenges of the recession so we want to ensure the council and its partners offer support to help people steer a successful course through these difficult times."

Tom tastes farming life

LAID BACK: Urban schoolboy Tom Ridehalgh relaxes after a trip to the farm

By NAZIA PARVEEN

Schoolboy Tom Ridehalgh, swapped his computer for crops when he was selected to take part in CITV's brand new show, Farm Camp.

The 10-part show sees Tom leave the comfort of his home town of Blackburn to join a group of urban children, regimental Farmer Paul and some chickens, piglets and lambs to learn about life on a farm.

From mucking out to milking cows, apple-picking to potato planting, Tom quickly got stuck in and learned that milk does not come from a bottle nor carrots from a plastic bag – and sausages once had four legs.

Farmer Paul, with his no-nonsense attitude, ensured Farm Camp was no holiday camp by encouraging Tom and the rest of the kids to submerge themselves into the sights and smells of the farm and setting them daily tasks.

Tom said: "I've definitely got more respect for farmers now."

The show started on Monday, airing at 5pm on the CITV channel.

Green damp proofing without the mess of replastering

Holland Damp Proofing
Protecting your home and the planet

NATURAL SOLUTION:
Director, Evert de Graaf, shows where the bricks are inserted to clear dampness.

WITH Winter approaching, now is the time to prepare for the colder and wetter weather.

A surprising number of people live in damp, mouldy and unhealthy homes, not only letting their property deteriorate but also putting their health at risk.

And while everyone knows the benefits of damp proofing, people tend to think about the mess of replastering and the disruption that usually comes with a new damp proofing course.

For ten years the eco-friendly company, Holland Damp Proofing has used a Dutch system, which provides damp proofing from the outside without the mess of replastering. It works by fitting specialist bricks from the outside which combat damp.

The Holland Damp Proof System® can be installed in an average house within one or two days at a price that is often lower than a chemical damp proof course.

The treatment is a worthwhile investment, as it will not need doing again and saves on the cost of redecorating and replastering.

Tested independently by Liverpool University, the eco-friendly method can be used to treat problems such as rising damp, penetrating damp, condensation and mould.

It can be used on virtually all types of walls, whether stone or brick, and can be perfectly combined with cavity wall insulation – keeping your home drier and warmer, whilst helping lower your heating bills.

The system has been fitted in thousands of UK properties, and is used by councils and housing associations.

The rapidly expanding company, which regularly wins awards for innovation and success, now has four branches covering the UK (mainland).

I used to flunk at everything

FIVE MINUTES WITH ... Alison Moyet

YOU GREW UP IN BASILDON, ARE YOU STILL AN ESSEX GIRL AT HEART?

Yeah I think so, my family are still there and it's what's at the bones of you, really. It was never an ambition of mine to leave, it happened upon me, but I was never one of those people who were just desperate to get out. As a child I just loved it!

YOU LEFT SCHOOL AT 16, WAS THAT TO CONCENTRATE ON MUSIC?

No, not really. I just used to flunk at everything and had a problem with concentration. I lost interest in school, so left and went from job to job – which you could do then because there were loads of rubbish jobs around – and I started a couple of courses and then dropped out. I was playing in a couple of bands, but never imagined I'd be doing that full-time.

HOW DID YOU FORM YAZOO?

There was a very strong pub-rock scene in the 1970s, which after punk is what I'd got into, supporting bands like Dr Feelgood, and there was a real Canvey/Southend sound which I was a part of. I knew Vince (Clarke) because I was in a class with a couple of the Depeche Mode boys at college. Vince's best mate was a guitar player in my punk band, and when Vince left Depeche and was looking for a singer, I came to mind because I was a little face on the local scene. Within a couple of months I went from having being at college studying restoration to having a single out, made an album and suddenly we were massive pop stars.

Alison Moyet made her name as singer with synth-pop band Yazoo and became a major international artist with her 1984 solo debut album Alf.

The 48-year-old released her new album The Best Of Alison Moyet on October 19. She will perform at the Lowry, Salford Quays, on November 17.

Funny side of life

The applause goes on so long when Ed Byrne appears live that the comedian is forced to return for an encore.

His audiences simply won't leave until they have been treated to a few more comic gems.

Next month it's a Blackburn crowd who'll be clapping for more as the comedian appears as part of the You Must Be Joking comedy festival.

And Ed is just as charming off stage as on it. He possesses a genuine magnetism which he exudes like one of those force fields in an old episode of Star Trek.

Ed, who hails from Dublin, starts by assessing why his new Different Class tour is striking such a chord with audiences. He says people are lapping it up because he reveals so much about himself.

What is appealing is how candidly the comic discusses everything – including his recent wedding.

"The best comedy comes from a personal angle," declares 36-year-old Ed, who has appeared on TV shows Have I Got News For You, Mock the Week, Never Mind the Buzzcocks and 8 out of 10 Cats.

"Sometimes you hear a comedian on stage saying, 'I'm single', and you think, 'no, you're not, you're married with kids!'

"I think it makes a great difference if as a comic you can take your own life and tell the truth about it. If it's real, it makes it so much better. It gives it much more authenticity and has far greater punch."

The Irishman, who since last summer has been very happily married, said: "You could be accused of self-indulgence, but my experience has been that audiences really like it when you reveal something of yourself.

"It's not funny unless they believe it. For instance, one section of Different Class that goes down very well is where I talk about my status.

"I discuss neither being massively famous nor totally obscure and how strange it is simply to be known as 'that bloke'."

The power of a smile

Smiling is infectious you catch it like the flu,
Buy a car from Hugh and you'll be smiling too.
If you feel a smile begin don't leave it undetected,
Our warranty is good, you'll be so well protected.
I passed around the corner I was confronted by a grin,
It was a satisfied customer I'd passed it on to him.
I thought about his smile and realised its power
More powerful than advertising, growing like a flower.
A simple smile like his could travel round the earth
Part exchanges taken we'll tell you what its worth.
